Lee Roy Doskocil, manager of a Rosebud baseball team last year, is urging that Central Texas organize a semi-pro baseball league, along the lines of play back in 1958.

That is the last year Cameron had a semi-pro club which played other teams in this area. Forrest Sapp, Cameron businessman, and others played on that squad. Richard and Buck Wilkerson also were team members.

A Temple sponsor will bring club sponsors and managers together to organize a league. And participating teams in a wide Central Texas area are prospects.

Teams are likely to be founded in Temple, Westphalia, Rosebud, Gatesville, Marlin, Buckholts, Bryan, Hearne, Elgin, Taylor, McGregor among others.

Doskocil said it might be possible to have two divisions if enough teams would develop over a wide area. And the resulting league would, in effect, cover non-metro Central Texas.

A great deal of interest continues in baseball in all these smaller cities and communities. Summer baseball programs for boys 7 through 15 develop talent for high school teams and school teams yield players for amateur ranks.

The proposal has merit. Cameron has a long history of baseball support. The Cameron Cardinals have been playing on weekends with various opponents for years and represent a potential club. Another here perhaps could be organized, if desired.

Doskocil says a sponsor awaits word from various communities in this area, which would bring together the elements for organization, team rules and schedule. The Herald joins in urging baseball players to consider the possibilities and contact Doskocil for details.

NOW-NOW-NOW

We received an unsigned letter from a young lady, we presume, dated March 17, which we won't publish because it is unsigned.

But the point of the letter is the same point we have made in a recent column.

There is little to do in Cameron for young people of high school and post-high school age. This person is concerned about the lack of leisure activity in Cameron.

It is a problem. We still anticipate a downtown theatre some day. We hope school leadership will develop more student activities, in conjunction with athletic events, for example, post-game dances.

This letter writer is concerned about people who spend a great deal of time worrying about young adults, out of school. For many, the concern is genuine. For others, it is fair to say, the concern for youth is bent out of shape by what might be called some of the "fastest mouths in the Southwest."

Cameron is moving to a more youthful age. About 15 percent of Milam population is over 65 and much of this community's pace until recent years has been geared to older influence. And Cameron and Milam population dropped.

Young people should remember there was a teen club here and it went without support.

The downtown theatre 10 years ago went without enough economic support and suffered heavy damage at the hands of youth who thought theatre seats were something to be carved on.

If youth wants something to do, it should be developed. Youth is active. Small towns have a way of exaggerating youth's activities, sometime just because people are not young and don't wish to be disturbed.

It is difficult for older to understand the younger because of carousing events between ages two generations apart.

Youth may be misunderstood. But it must understand, too. And youth should not be concerned with gossip if that is all it is.

City OKs Resolution For UR Relocation

The City Council in a called meeting 5:30 p.m. Thursday approved 5-0 a resolution accepting responsibility for one-fourth of any urban renewal relocation costs after July 1, 1972.

Vote came after an explanation by Albert McCullin, newly appointed urban renewal director, who said a 1970 federal law requiring this assumption of relocation responsibility came before a contract could be signed with Housing & Urban Development in Dallas. Funds already have been approved in Washington.

Prior to the new regulation, a federal grant of $177,000 had been included in urban renewal funding with no requirement of matching city funds. The City of Cameron is matching one in four for actual construction costs, either by cash or in-kind credits.

McCullin estimated that the one-quarter matching for relocation funds after July 1, 1972, would be concerned with only about 27 percent of the relocation stage of urban renewal. He estimated 73 percent of this stage would be complete by the 1972 date.

Mayor E. A. Perrin emphasized the outside figure, if nothing happened in relocation by July, 1972, would be a city one-quarter cost of $44,000 plus. But he also said the relocation process can be accelerated into remodeled building interiors even while exterior remodeling continues.

McCullin said he estimated the cost to the city after July 1, 1972 could likely be about $11,700 if his 73 percent estimate, which HUD officials in Dallas accepted, was reached. And he said economies on other phases of the total project, about $650,000, could be made to save that amount in other areas where the City already has pledged to pay one-fourth.

Accompanying McCullin to the special meeting were about 10 Cameron civic leaders.

Gene Blake, president of Coca-Cola Bottling Co., of Cameron, was named to fill the vacancy on the urban renewal board created by McCullin's resignation and hiring as urban renewal director. A. E. Matula, former director, is in charge of relocation and rehabilitation. Councilmen Bob Clark, Lawrence Zott, Starrett Hickman, Monroe Fuchs and Lester Turner voted for the resolution.

McCullin said the resolution was the Nation Will Mark Week For POW's

This week has been designated a National Week of Concern for Prisoners of War by Congress.

The Yoe High Chapter of National Honor Society, which has spearheaded a letter writing drive appealing for observance of the Geneva Convention code of war prisoners, has issued the following schedule for the week:

Sunday - special services in all Cameron churches.

Monday - flags at half mast.

Tuesday - leave outside lights on from dusk until dawn

Wednesday - leave headlights on car all day

Friday - fast except for two meals between 10 and 11 a.m. and 4:30 and 5:30 p.m. to represent two meals received daily by POW's.

Honor Society members will also distribute copies of a sample letter to the Paris Peace Talks delegation from North Vietnam at Cameron area churches Sunday.

LETTERS HAVE HELPED

The family of an American POW held in North Vietnam credits the national letter writing campaign with providing communication with the airman and photographs allegedly showing his good care in a recent issue of Life Magazine.

The photographs were taken by Japanese photographer-journalist Kozo Sakurai and accompany a story about prisoner treatment. Capt. Hoffson apparently was at a Christmas service when the photographs were taken.

The 27-year-old single officer has several relatives in the Bryan and Cameron areas. His maternal grandmother is Mrs. J. H. Thomas of Cameron. His mother's two sisters are Mrs. Make McDermott of Cameron and Mrs. Juanita Young of Bryan.

Mrs. Young's daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Patranella of Bryan, is a first cousin and grew up with the airman.

Mrs. Hoffson is a graduate of Hearne High School.

Capt. Hoffson was a lieutenant when his F-4 fighter-bomber was shot down over North Vietnam on Aug. 17, 1968. The plane's pilot was Lt. Elmo Powell of Gatesville, nephew of Miss Mary Routh of Bryan.

Mrs. Young said Lts. Hoffson and Powell, both University of Texas at Austin graduates, were very close personal friends. Powell is still listed as missing in action.

Capt. Hoffson was listed as missing for 15 months. His family never gave up hope, and official notification of his capture was released by the North Vietnamese on Nov. 24, 1969.

During the past year Mrs. Hoffson received four letters from her son and Mrs. Thomas, the grandmother, has received one letter.

There also has been a flow of letters and packages to the POW.

When the photographs appeared in Life, Mrs. Hoffson knew the partially hidden prisoner was her son. She called the Pentagon, but was told everyone had been identified and her son was not among the group.

She persisted. Two days later Mrs. See POW, Page 7

Pool Becomes Parking Lot

BELTON

Belton's municipal swimming pool has been leased to Bell County for use as a parking lot. The swimming pool, originally called the Belton Natatorium, is being filled in and paved for county officials and visitors parking. The swimming pool property adjoined the new Bell County office building at Belton.

H. Bryant, 85, Continues To Build

H. H. Bryant had little time for his 85th birthday observance last month. He was busy building a house at Rogers.

Bryant, whose ancestors first settled the Bryant Station area of Milam County, is completing his 22nd house and his plans for two more on adjoining property in Rogers. But he can't devote full time to the task, he also has a 60 acre farm at Bryant Station where his maize crop is already planted.

He has had a few helpers on the construction job at Rogers, but most of the work has been his own labor.

"I don't do the wiring or plumbing, but I measure, saw the lumber and nail it in place," Bryant said. The two bedroom house is a mixture of the old and new. Some of the lumber is from houses he tore down on his property in Bryant Station. The exterior is of a new masonite type board that Bryant says won't need painting for at least 15 years.

The house in Rogers is a far cry from the one of his early youth. He was born near Buckholts in a log house that had a dirt floor.

"There were 13 children in our family," Bryant said, "five are still living." The children all became familiar with Milam County history through their grandmother.

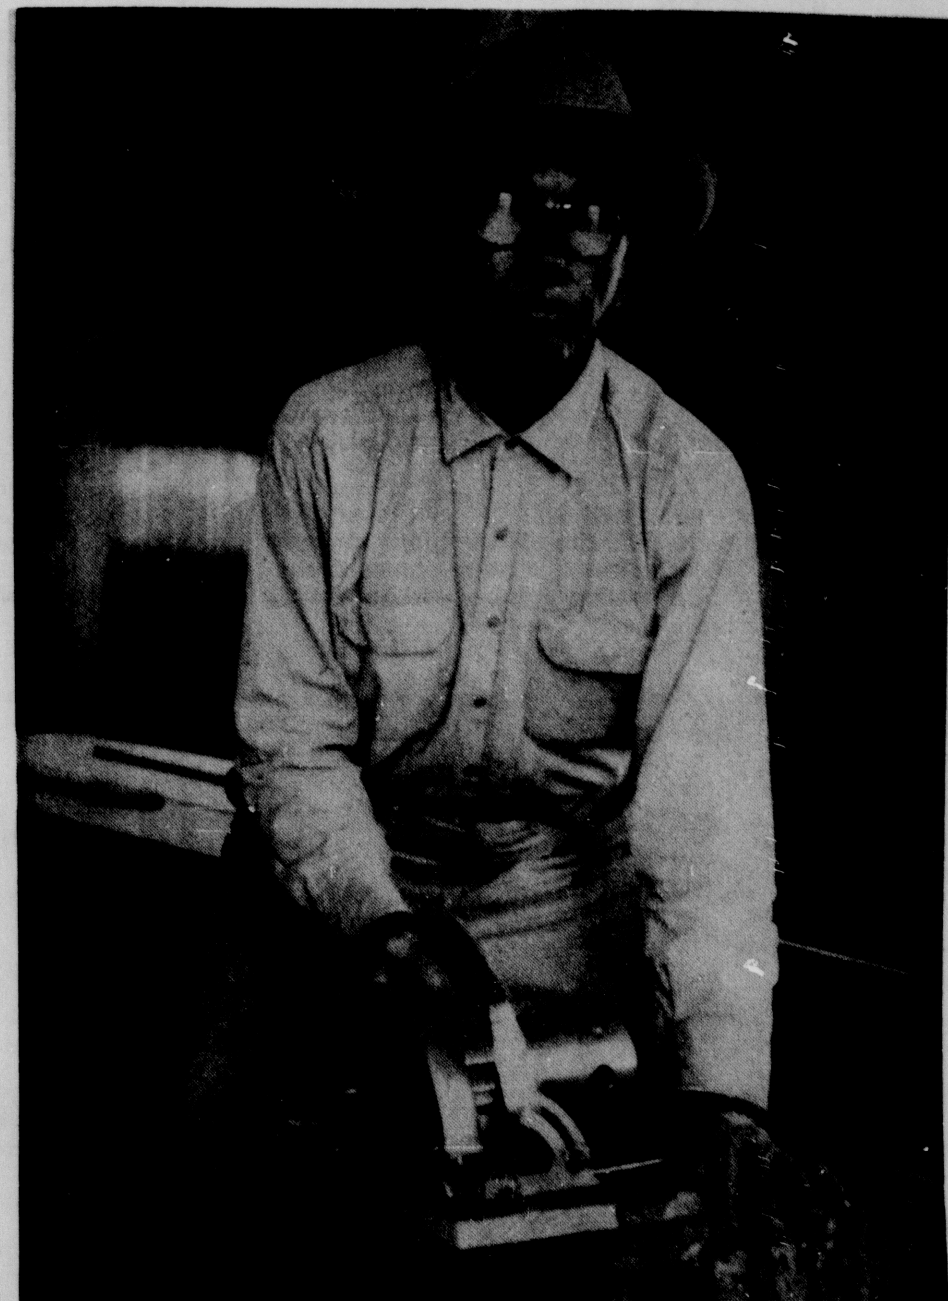

"My grandfather, Major Benjamin Bryant, built the Fort at Bryant Station," he said, "and those were frightening times." His grandmother told of how the women would go together to carry water to the barracks, always accompanied by men carrying rifles in case of Indian attack.

A family of friendly Indians lived at the Fort and Bryant's grandmother told of one occasion when they probably saved the settlers' lives. A troop of Indian warriors approached the Fort one day, but turned away when the Indians living there went out to meet them.

Bryant's father farmed a 700 acre spread at Bryant Station, and his son farmed until 1938 when he contracted to truck mail from the railroad station to the Temple post office. Later he contracted to truck mail at Beaumont and then in Louisiana. He also worked in the shipyards at Beaumont and in his "free" time, started building houses. He is presently living in a garage apartment of his own construction in Temple and commutes to the farm at Bryant Station and the house at Rogers.

Maybe he'll find time to celebrate his 86th birthday next February, but probably he'll be working on another house and getting the farm ready to plant.

The Renaissance March...

Cameron's YHS band went to University Interscholastic League competition last week and brought home 32 medals and assurance of two places in state competition.

It is good to see the Cameron band go into individual competition. The Yoe band has always been a good band, but the new edition is making special effort to reach out, much like the whole community.

Every civic movement and improvement needs leadership, record keeping as well as record making and a theme to accompany the effort.

Perhaps the Cameron Renaissance is marching to a tune of outstanding musicianship by the modern Yoe band.

A New Central Texas Plant...

Round Rock landed a major industry when Westinghouse last mid-week announced location of an 800 - employee plant on a 200-acre site. The Austin area attracted.

The impact can be felt in Milam County, which by today's standards is a short distance in time, from that Williamson County community.

After Rockdale Works was built by Alcoa in the 1950s, people began commuting as far as 80 or 90 miles one way to work at the giant Milam County plant.

It is not at all impossible that 50 to 100 Milam Countians will find such commuting to good jobs worth their while.

This type of thing is going to happen more often each new year. One or two major new industries will mean additional hold on high school graduates and strengthening need for modern small cities.

Cameron is right on schedule. The growth that occurs on Interstate 35 to our west is close enough to make a big difference. And we are getting modern enough to take advantage of every such development.

We join neighboring Williamson County in welcoming Westinghouse to Central Texas. May the job market grow even faster.

Washington, D. C. -- The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State:

New Panama Canal

What are the prospects for a new sea-level canal being built near the present Panama Canal?

P.D.S.
New Orleans, La.

Dear P.D.S.:

The Panama Canal, with its two lanes of locks, may soon be inadequate for commercial and military needs. Larger commercial ships cannot transit the canal with full loads. The locks are too narrow for U.S. aircraft carriers and supply vessels (more than 65,000 tons). Annual canal traffic is expected to increase from the present 13,500 to 17,900 ships by 1985. The existing canal will reach its maximum annual capacity of 26,800 ship transits in the 1990's.

Taking this into account, the Congress in 1964 authorized the establishment of an independent 5-man Atlantic-Pacific Inter-oceanic Canal Study Commission to determine the feasibility and cost of, and most suitable site for, the construction of a new sea-level canal, and the best method of building it.

On November 30, 1970, the commission presented its findings to President Nixon. Emphasizing that the United States should retain effective control of canal operations and defense, the commission recommended construction of a new sea-level canal. It would be built by conventional, rather than nuclear, excavation on Route 10, which lies about 10 miles west of the existing lock canal and Canal Zone and parallel to it.

The commission also proposed the establishment of a unified Isthmian canal system including both the existing canal and a sea-level canal on Route 10, to be operated and defended under effective U.S. control with participation by Panama; operation of the canal system to provide an equitable share of revenues and other economic benefits for Panama consistent with efficiency of canal operations; and encouragement of other nations to participate in financing the canal system if that is acceptable to Panama. The commission's recommendations will be an important consideration in determining the future of the Panama Canal.

The United States operates the present canal on a nonprofit basis for the benefit of all users. Since 1964 we have been discussing with Panama the problems of operation and defense of the canal and the possibility of a new sea-level canal. In 1967 U.S.-Panamanian negotiators completed three draft treaties on these matters, which were formally rejected by the Government of Panama in August 1970.

It is our position on the existing canal, and any new canal, that it must be open at all times to vessels of all nations at reasonable tolls; it must be efficiently operated; and we must have unimpaired rights effectively to defend it.

Panama's attitude is based on increasing dissatisfaction with the canal administration system that was established by that 1903 treaty, which gave the United States certain rights and authority with respect to the Panama Canal, and with certain other aspects of that treaty as amended in 1936 and 1955. Panama maintains it should share more fully in the proceeds of the canal operation than the $1.9 million rental the United States pays annually. It has also protested the provisions of Article II of the treaty, which grants U.S. rights in Panama "in perpetuity."

We remain ready to continue discussion with Panama on a new treaty with regard to canal matters whenever Panama indicates a desire to do so.

Architects Draw Up Two Bills For Courthouse Preservation

Two proposed statutes, each involving the Survey Committee, have grown out of a special environmental study recently conducted by the Texas Society of Architects.

Intended to promote the preservation and development of historic Texas courthouses, these proposed bills are scheduled for presentation to the Sixty-second Legislature. They resulted from an intensive study of the Lavaca County Courthouse area, in Hallettsville, during 1970. The study was undertaken by the Committee on Historic Resources of T.S.A.'s special Commission on the Environment.

The first proposed bill would require that any county must give six months' notice to the Survey Committee before taking any action to alter, sell, or lease the exterior of its courthouse or grounds, provided the courthouse has been designated a Recorded Texas Historic Landmark by the state.

The second piece of legislation would be directed toward the actual development of historic courthouses. In essence, it would set up a fund, to be administered by the Survey Committee, providing for the restoration and preservation of courthouses and their grounds. The original appropriation—$300,000 is suggested—would have to be matched 50-50 from county, city, private, or federal sources.

Grants would be made to counties and/or cities on the basis of the quality of buildings and spaces involved, the quality of preliminary planning, and availability of funds.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Bertram S. Brown, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

Community Colleges' Program

Community colleges, which number over 1,000 throughout the Nation, will be aided in starting and developing courses of study to train urgently needed mental health workers under a new program.

In the program, administered by the National Institute of Mental Health of the Health Services and Mental Health Administration, U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, the junior colleges will be supported by Federal grants aimed at the end result of encouraging more young people into careers in mental health work.

Colleges which propose sound programs will be aided by awards made on the basis of competitive reviews of all applications. Priority consideration will be given to institutions which train disadvantaged students or train students for service to groups not receiving adequate mental health services.

"The programs should lead to an Associate of Arts degree or its equivalent," said Dr. Thomas F. A. Plaut, Acting Director of the NIMH, Division of Manpower and Training Programs, in announcing the program to the community colleges.

The colleges receiving the grants will select the trainees themselves. The institutions will also be expected to demonstrate the availability of employment possibilities for their graduates following the training period.

Pilot programs of this kind have been successful in producing and placing mental health workers in jobs, Dr. Plaut indicated, with about seven colleges currently conducting demonstration programs with NIMH aid.

History of Medicines

The history of medicines used against man's mental and physical ills is long and fascinating—and helps us to understand where we are today in the quest for ideal drugs to cure human ailments.

Taking drugs to help overcome mental disorders is probably about as old as man's life on earth. We can speculate that even the ancestors of Homo Sapiens, trembling from the shock of a narrow escape from a sabre-tooth tiger, may have chewed on some pungent leaves that he knew would help to calm him.

This is only speculation, but there is archaeological evidence suggesting that sometime from 40,000 B.C. to 10,000 B.C. man developed resources from plants. Among these resources may have been fruits, leaves, or stalks of plants which produced mental effects when chewed or eaten.

Pre-history archaeological findings from around 7000 B.C., furthermore, indicate that the drug, alcohol, was used then. Also, the use of such things as mushrooms, betel nuts, and cocoa leaves for their drug effects may have come about early.

Time rolled on, but the science of pharmacology, the study of drugs, did not really begin until the nineteenth century.

There were major successes, such as with vaccines and, later, with antibiotics. These great advances obscure the fact that hundreds of thousands of diggings were made for each bit of valuable material which was found. But not until the 1950's were there major gains in the field of psychoactive (mind affecting) drugs.

Because of research underway today, moreover, the future is bright with promise for new discoveries and new or improved drugs and medicines for the prevention and treatment of mental and emotional disorders.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Custom Jobs At Precision Automotive Grinding

Two expansions in six years tell a story about Precision Automotive Grinding Co., 1700 West Fourth St. (West SH 36).

It tells how well Leo and James Krenak know how to work the internal parts of auto and truck engines in a very specialized field.

It also tells how they expand their abilities into related lines which now include auto and tractor parts, sale of rebuilt Mustang Rebuilders engines, Good-year and other tires and an assortment of services.

Precision Automotive is the place to get grinding of valves, cylinder heads, crank shafts, cylinder boring, brake drum turning and all manner of smaller engine grinding and drilling work. It is also a general repair center which employs Adolph Hertenberger as a valve specialist.

Precision Automotive stocks cylinder heads and complete rebuilt engines, a feature rare in grinding centers outside metropolitan areas. If someone wants a complete job fast, a rebuilt engine can be put in place, finished and ready for use in much shorter time.

Each job, major or minor, is a custom job. And the Precision Automotive work is reasonable and dependable.

Mrs. James Krenak is part-time bookkeeper at Precision Automotive and assists in serving customers who are wanting information on work in progress or when service can be completed.

Front of the operation is bright and modern and houses parts, service counter and a display of tires, equipment and familiar namebrand items throughout. Balance of the 3,400 square foot structure is devoted to parts storage and garage work space for vehicles, machinery and men.

Precision Automotive emphasizes this grinding work is not available at just any garage, even very large ones. Their skills and special equipment do things that ordinarily other garages might job out to centers in Central Texas cities.

Everything from "cherry bomb" mufflers to a complete rebuilt engine replacement is what Precision Automotive Grinding Co. offers. It is unique in the Milam area.

IRS Questions

Q - Why are there so many tax tables in the 1040 instruction book?

A - More tax tables were needed this year because they were extended to cover taxpayers with incomes up to $10,000. Previously, tables were only provided for incomes up to $5,000.

This change will make it possible for millions of additional taxpayers to figure their tax due just by looking at a tax table rather than having to make a percentage calculation. Besides being convenient, the tables should also help reduce the number of errors in arithmetic.

Q - If I move before my refund comes, will it be forwarded to me?

A - Yes, if you have notified your postmaster of your new address. Failure to provide a forwarding address delayed the delivery of many refunds last year.

Q - When you reach 65, can't you deduct all of your medical expenses?

A - No, only those expenses that exceed 3 per cent of adjusted gross income can be deducted if you itemize. This applies to all taxpayers, regardless of age.

Note that one-half, up to $150, of the premiums paid for medical insurance may be deducted without regard to the 3 per cent rule. Medicare premiums may be included.

Q - I will pay some tax on my 1970 return because my tax withholding was not enough. If I increase my withholding for 1971 can I avoid filing a declaration of estimated tax?

A - Yes, if your withholding will leave you with a balance of tax due of less than $40 when you file your 1971 return then you will not be required to file a declaration of estimated tax. The purpose of the estimated tax system is to enable all taxpayers to pay their taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Q - How long should I keep the records I used for my 1970 return?

A - Tax records must be retained as long as they are needed to administer any Federal tax law. In general they should be kept at least three years after the due date of the return. Some records, however, such as those relating to the purchase of stock or a residence should be kept longer because they will be needed for your tax return when the asset is sold or exchanged.

Q - Last year, I had income from some free lance work I did, as well as from my regular job. Do I have to pay both social security and self-employment tax?

A - The maximum earnings subject to these taxes in 1970 is $7,800. If the wages from your regular job amounted to that much you won't have to pay any self-employment tax. Use Schedule SE to compute your liability, if any, for self-employment tax.

Q - Do I have to pay tax on the wedding gifts I received?

A - No, recipients of gifts are not liable for Federal income or gift taxes on the gifts. However, generally speaking, income derived from the gifts is taxable to you.

Q - How does the dividend exclusion work?

A - The law provides that you do not have to pay tax on the first $100 in ordinary dividends. Any dividend in an ordinary dividend unless the paying corporation indicates otherwise. If the stock is owned jointly by husband and wife, or if you file a joint return, then $200 in ordinary dividends may be received tax free.

Q - I lost the envelope that came in my tax package. Where should I send my return?

A - Send it to the Internal Revenue Service Center, 3651 South Interregional Highway, Austin, Texas 78740.

Q - I made a charitable contribution in December but the check wasn't cashed until January. Can I deduct this on my 1971 return?

A - Yes, you may take the deduction for the year the check was mailed as long as you had sufficient funds in your account to cover the check.

Tourists Enjoyed Visits To Texas, Survey Shows

AUSTIN

Out-of-state and foreign visitors to Texas totaled 21,116,000 persons during 1970, and they spent $1,469,115,000 according to figures just released by the Texas Highway Department in the annual Texas Visitor Industry Report.

The totals reflect slight declines in tourists from the previous year. Auto visitors decreased about seven per cent during 1970, and commercial carrier totals declined slightly less than one per cent. Auto travelers are annually surveyed by the Highway Department, while commercial carrier travelers are tabulated by the Texas Tourist Council.

Despite the declines, the Highway Department reported that tourism continues to rank among major contributors to the Texas economy. Total visitors were nearly twice the number of resident Texans, and their expenditures of nearly $1.5 billion places tourism among the state's leading industries.

Average spending by auto visitors was $11.34 per person per day, or $31.75 a day per visitor party.

The 1970 auto tourist party averaged 2.8 persons who spent 5.7 days in Texas. Nearly 70 percent had vacationed in Texas before, while the remainder were first-time visitors.

As in the past, the overwhelming majority enjoyed their visit. Favorable responses totaled more than 90 percent. Texas highways ranked first in compliments, followed by friendly towns, Highway Department tourist bureaus, and the variety of attractions throughout the state.

Those who called in person at Highway Department tourist bureaus totaled 1,181,000 persons. Nine of the bureaus are at major highway entrances to Texas, one is in the state capitol, and one is the Judge Roy Bean Visitor Center at Langtry.

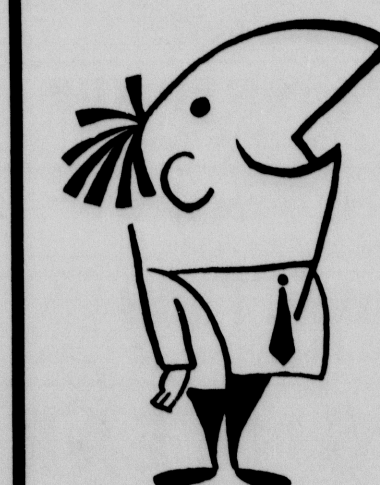

At each of the bureaus, visitors receive the full treatment of a Texas welcome from pretty, professional travel counselors. The greeting is garnished by colorful travel literature designed to stimulate interest about every part of the state.

According to the survey, Houston was the most popular metropolitan destination during 1970, followed closely by Dallas, El Paso, San Antonio, and a host of other Texas cities with significant visitor appeal. Among those who listed an area destination rather than a specific city, East Texas came out slightly ahead the runner-up Gulf Coast region.

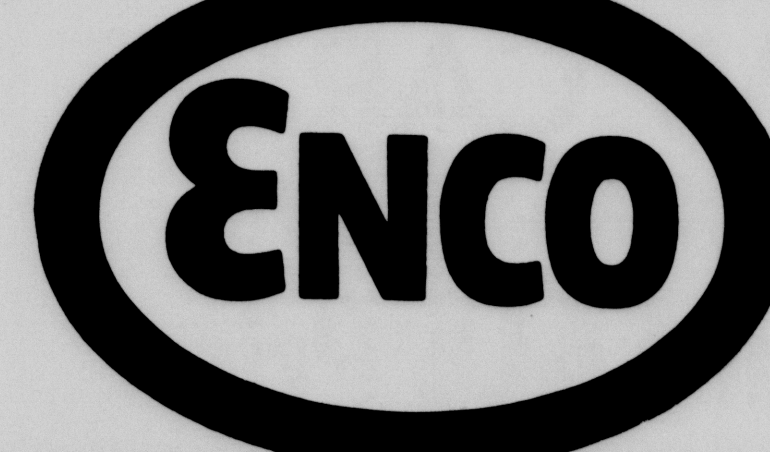

However, no area of the state can claim a real majority of the tourist market, because "general touring" was mentioned three times more often than any regional destination.

The Highway Department's 1970 survey was based upon 25,314 in-depth questionnaires completed by auto visitors. The questionnaires, representing more than 70,000 individual tourists, provided data indicating primary tourist origins, destinations, and expenditures.

Supplementing the questionnaires, the Highway Department conducted 339 visual traffic counts throughout the year. The counts, most of them for 24-hour periods, tabulated incoming out-of-state traffic on interstate, U.S. and State Highways around the entire perimeter of Texas.

Volunteer Exercise Program Benefits Junior High Girls

Cameron Junior High girls are benefiting from their teachers' interest in basketball.

The teachers, Mrs. Max Morgan, Mrs. Price Minter and Miss Sheryl McQueen, voluntarily give up two after-school hours a week to lead an exercise - basketball class for 90 sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls. It means an introduction to athletics that the girls would not have otherwise. It has also meant lots of sore muscles for the girls whose exercise experience had been limited to a short walk from class to class.

The 90 girls are also volunteers and though the routine is strenuous they seldom miss the Monday and Tuesday afternoon sessions.

The class is divided into two groups. Each have 30 minutes of exercise and 30 minutes of basketball practice.

Mrs. Morgan, who works with the basketball section, said the girls are learning the fundamentals now. "We can already see some potentially good basketball players," she said, "and no lack of enthusiasm."

The basketball practice is held in the Junior High gymnasium.

Meanwhile outside on the school grounds the exercise group limbers up with push-ups, jumps and bends for 15 minutes, then switch to relay games. Some days the girls run, some days they play "leap frog" and sometimes it is an intricate under and over relay. Whatever the routine, it is always a combination of exercise and fun, plus the competition of two lines racing against each other.

The volunteer athletic program for girls fills a gap left when Title I funding cuts forced the Cameron schools to discontinue junior high level girls physical education program taught last year by Mrs. Alvis Fuquay. Only a limited physical ed program is available for girls this year.

Although the girls have proven their interest in physical education, a regular program is not likely in the near future.

D. R. Dodson, supt. of schools, said a girl's physical education teacher for the Junior High would have to be paid from local funds. "We have state assistance on teachers' salaries based on our daily student attendance and this provides just enough for the academic program," he said.

The state does allow a special service teacher for every 20 teachers employed in a system. Cameron has three teachers under this program: a high school girls' physical education teacher, high school librarian and elementary school music teacher.

BASKETBALL practice in the Junior High gymnasium is part of a volunteer girls physical education program during after school hours each Monday and Tuesday, Mrs. Max Morgan, center, directs the basketball section.

LEAP FROG combines exercise and fun for the outdoor section of the junior high level volunteer girls physical education program. Mrs. Price Minter (standing) and Miss Sheryl McQueen direct the exercise section.

Blackout Curtains Bought For Rogers Junior High School

The Rogers Junior High School Student Council and the Rogers High Junior Honor Society have purchased six blackout curtains for the junior high rooms. They will be delivered in a few weeks.

Both organizations have worked hard to earn the money for this project. The curtains will add a lot to the junior high rooms, the curtains will hopefully make the showing of films more enjoyable and more effective.

The curtains will cost approximately $125 each and will work like draperies, on a bracket, drawing to either side from the middle. The curtains are made of a vinyl material.

Weldon Schiller is president of the Student Council and Henry Skala is president of the Honor Society.

April Draft Call Totals 1,033 Men

AUSTIN

The April draft call by the Department of Defense is for 17,000 men, all for the Army. Colonel Melvin N. Glantz, State Director of Selective Service for Texas, today announced the April draft call in Texas as 1,033.

Most of the men selected for induction in April will come from the first priority group for 1971, however a few men in the extended priority group, who were needed by their local boards to fill the March call, but who were unavailable for induction in March for several reasons, will be included.

Glantz said the limitation on lottery numbers for April would be the same as in earlier months of 1971. He explained that no one in the 1971 first priority group with a lottery number above 100 would be inducted.

The State Department said the pre-induction physical examination call for Texas in April will be 4,001 men.

Glantz pointed out that the special call by the Department of Defense for Doctors and Dentists, which is being processed within the next few days, is separate and apart from the regular draft call.

Texas Marriage, Divorce Governed By New Code

For more than a year, a new code has governed marriage and divorce practices in Texas, announces Jane Fleischer, Extension family life education specialist at Texas A&M University. The new Family Life Code, which became law in Jan. 1970, emphasizes reconciliation in divorce cases. For example, when the judge receives a divorce petition, he can order the couple to consult a marriage counselor. The couple, in turn, must report their progress to the judge, who may then postpone the hearing up to 60 days for additional counseling.

The new code also alters divorce courtroom proceedings, attempting "to remove the battlefield nature of these cases," Miss Fleischer said. The cases, for instance, are now titled, "In the matter of the marriage of John Doe and Mary Doe," rather than "John Doe vs. Mary Doe." Grounds for divorce have been expanded under the new code. If a marriage fails because of personality conflicts, the couple does not have to contrive cruelty as a defense.

Insupportability is also grounds for divorce under new law. Insupportability means that the marriage is unbearable for both parties.

The new family code also affects marriage practices in Texas. A man 19-years-old can now legally marry without parental consent; the age for women, however, remains 18.

Boys, 16, and girls, 14, have always been able to form common law marriages without parental consent, if they meet three requirements: agreeing to be husband and wife, living together as husband and wife, and holding themselves out to the public as husband and wife.

The only change in the new law is a provision for recording these common law marriages. This practice will preserve the existence of the marriage in order to prove legitimacy of children and to obtain benefits, such as social security.

"The new law actually gives parents a greater control over their teen-agers," Miss Fleischer says. Parents can now file annulment suits when underage youths marry without consent.

These suits apply to both ceremonial and common law marriages. Under the old law, parents had no legal right to sue for annulment.

Other provisions of the new Family Life Code include requiring that a spouse be absent only a year instead of 3 years to qualify a divorce on grounds of abandonment; allowing former in-laws to marry; abolishing counter-claims of misconduct as a defense in divorce suits; and providing that condonation, if proved, is a valid defense in divorce actions.

The latter provision concerning condonation is acceptable only if reconciliation is probable. The old law stated that reconciliation, once a divorce suit had been filed, proved that the plaintiff condoned whatever misconduct the defendant had been accused of.

If reconciliation failed, the plaintiff then had to find new grounds and file an entirely new suit. Lawyers criticized that this practice discouraged couples from trying to reconcile their differences.

Europeans long mistook narwhal tusks for unicorn horns. When explorer Martin Frobisher found a dead tusked whale in the Arctic in 1577 he wrote that spiders placed in its hollow horn died. Since unicorns were thought to destroy poison, he concluded it was the "sea unicorn."

Feboco Schedules New Wildcat For East Milam Field

Feboco Oil Corporation of Houston has scheduled a new wildcat to be drilled on its lease block in east Milam County and two or three miles west of the Brazos River. It will be the corporation's No. 1 F. W. Patzke. Location is on a 144 acre lease in William Harris Survey.

The Patzke is located about 5,700 feet south of the No. 1 Gibson Unit which Feboco drilled in late January to a total depth of 2,425 feet. The No. 1 Gibson Unit is located on a 40 acre lease also in William Harris Survey.

When rig was moved off the Gibson, reportedly it was being abandoned as a dry hole, but Feboco now has applied to the Oil & Gas Division of the Railroad Commission for a Rule 14 - B - 2 exception allowing it one year before plugging the wildcat. Feboco also asked for a permit to drill the hole down to 2,500 feet. However, it indicated it has no plans to do this in the near future.

Nearest production to the Patzke is about 10 miles to the northeast in the Calvert area and across the Brazos River in Robertson County. Both it and the Gibson are located in an area of east Milam where there has been little drilling in recent years and no production. Several miles southwest of the Patzke, a deep wildcat, the No. 1 M. L.

Waller, drilled about two weeks ago by W. M. Gallaway, a Farmington, New Mexico operator, was reported to be a dry hole.

Location was on a 100 acre lease in D. A. Thompson Survey and approximately two miles northwest of the Cherokee Navarro Field.

Gallaway's wildcat was permitted to 6,100 feet and had the Edwards Lime as its objective. It is the newest failure to find production in that elusive formation.

last requirement prior to signing a contract and beginning a second appraisal of downtown property in the nine-block area.

Relocation procedures would assure reimbursement to relocated businesses and access to low interest loans, if needed, to remodel buildings for new operations.

Three HUD officials had been in Cameron last week and found estimates on relocation costs to be within $200 of costs established by on-site inspections that week.

HUD officials had some time before urged urban renewal estimates here be raised from $95,000 to the $177,000 figure.

McCullin told councilmen the contract signing would be forthcoming. He said no additional changes are possible after the contract is signed.

Hoffson received word it was her son and she was given two color photographs clearly showing him among the prisoners. The Pentagon officer apologized.

Capt. Hoffson's name also appeared in a North Vietnam newspaper, translated by the Department of Defense, commenting on a painting of two multi-colored birds he apparently painted in the prison camp.

"I believe the letter writing campaign is having a tremendous impact on North Vietnam," Mrs. Young said. "Before the campaign we knew nothing, now we know he is alive and there is a flow of letters and packages."

SINCE 1860

ACCENTUATED BY MOONLIGHT, the Earle-Harrison House museum recalls an era of bygone charm. Mrs. Maurice C. Barnes, chairman of the museum board of directors, has been a prime mover in its restoration, furnishings, and decoration. Her book, Early Homes of Waco and the People Who Lived in Them, provided the historical material recounted in the article below.

Museum Contributes To Culture of Waco

The splendid white Greek Revival house radiates an aura of magnolias and ante bellum elegance, but architects know a rather discomforting secret about it—it's only half there.

Erected in Waco in 1858-1859, the imposing house was originally intended to be a peristyle structure having columns on all four sides with a central hall plan. But for reasons that can now only be guessed, the plan was never completed. Perhaps the untimely death in 1859 of the builder, Dr. Baylis Wood Earle, had something to do with it.

At any rate, the Earle-Harrison House, now an historical museum, is only half of what it might have been. Another (better concealed) eccentricity of the structure is the fact that part of it was built by a shipwright. Some of the timbers are fitted rather than nailed together, in the manner of a skilled ship builder.

It was not uncommon in this early period to find itinerant shipwrights temporarily employed on dry land.

Anomalous as the house may be, however, nothing can detract from its classical symmetry nor from the symbolic role it has played in shaping both the past and present culture of Waco.

The builders, Dr. Earle and his wife, Eliza Ann Harrison Earle, were both descendants of distinguished Southern families and brought aspirations toward a life of refinement when they moved to the frontier village of Waco about 1857.

Already a successful physician, planter, and property owner, Dr. Earle began his house almost immediately but lived only a year and a month from the date he acquired the property on which the house was constructed.

For years following his demise, Mrs. Earle entertained the young society of Waco here. In 1872 she sold the structure to her brother, Gen. Thomas Harrison, a distinguished Civil War veteran, Texas legislator, and attorney. He continued the family tradition of gracious living until his death in 1891.

Decades passed and gradually the house fell into almost total disrepair. Luckily it was rescued from ruin in 1968 when Mrs. G. H. Pape accepted it as a gift from the Citizens National Bank, for the G. H. Pape Foundation. The building was moved to 1901 North Fifth Street and over a period of two years the Pape Foundation invested half a million dollars in restoring it.

In ceremonies December 13, 1970, the structure was formally opened as a museum and an Official Texas Historical Marker for it was dedicated.

On January 9 an Official Texas Restoration Award was given the house by the State Survey Committee. The presentation was made by Harry Proven, chairman of the McLennan County Survey Committee.

ABE Staff Attends Workshop

Adult Basic and Continuing Education teachers from five counties attended a workshop at Cameron Junior High School Saturday.

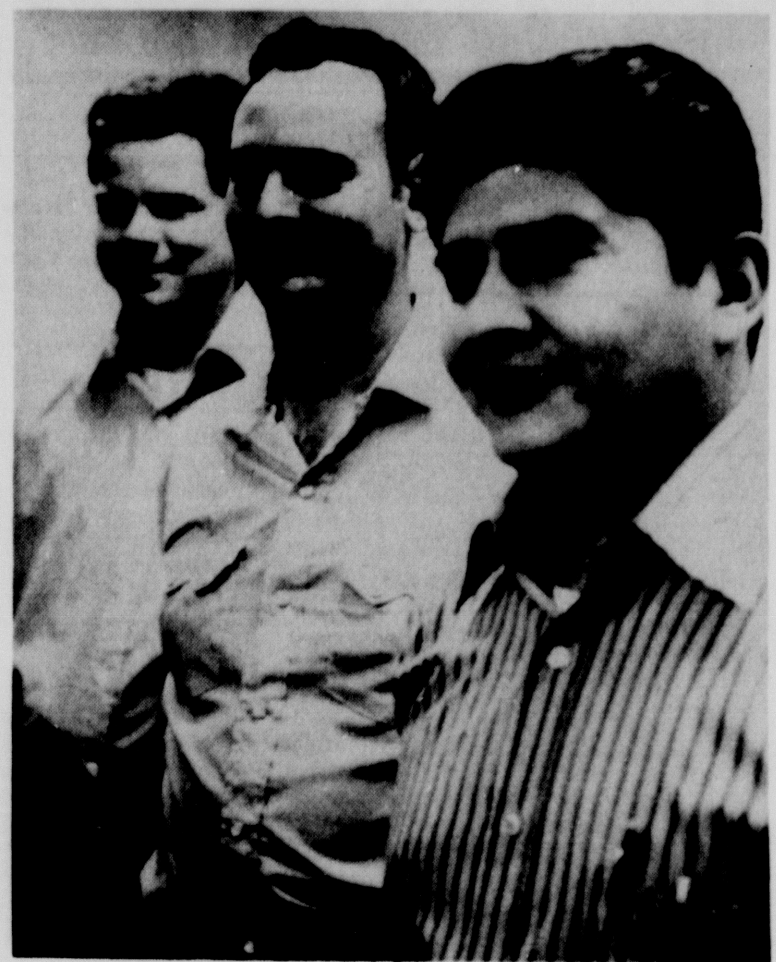

Some 25 teachers attended the workshop which covered new teaching techniques, methods and procedures, and enrollment retention among other subjects.

Texas Education Agency planning department staff members, Harry Seaman III, Claude Mathis and Luke Petranella were among leaders at the all-day affair. Jack Ruzicka, local ABE counselor, Mrs. Patsy Matula, Cameron teacher, and Max McClaren, county schools superintendent, assisted in workshop activities.

Petranella and Mrs. Matula presented the newspaper as a teaching technique. McClaren and Ruzicka gave a progress report on the 1970-71 year.

Teachers from these schools attended: Rosebud, Cameron, Rockdale, Marlin, Thorndale, Giddings, Lexington, Lott, Hearne and Caldwell.

Union wage rates for local truckdrivers and helpers in cities of 100,000 inhabitants or more averaged $4.36 an hour on July 1, 1970 -- up 10 percent or 40 cents over the previous year -- according to an annual survey by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

TJC Accepts Two Grants For Building

Two $50,000 grants were accepted from the national government this week by the Temple Junior College Board of Regents, who will apply the funds to construction of two new buildings. Bids may be asked next week on a new health and physical education building and in about 60 days on a new fine arts building.

The two grants, announced earlier this month in Washington, are designed to reduce indebtedness costs on the buildings rather than to add to the buildings themselves. They are similar to two other $50,000 grants received last year.

Dr. Hubert M. Dawson, president, said the sums are in addition to an annual interest grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under terms of this grant, the national government will pay all loan interest above 3%.

Temple voters approved a $1.25 million bond issue last October, and those bonds sold for 5.823% interest.

When the Williams-Steiger Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 goes into effect on April 28, 1971 it will cover an estimated 57 million workers in 4.1 million places of employment throughout the United States.

Service For B. Hargrove

Miss Bernice Hargrove, 79, retired LVN of Temple, died early Wednesday evening in Temple.

She was born near Cameron in Milam County but had lived most of her life in Falls and Bell counties. She had been in declining health for the past several years.

Funeral service was held Friday at 10 a.m. in the chapel of Green Funeral Home in Rosebud, Rev. Ed Stewart officiating. Burial was in Woodland Cemetery.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. B. F. Stewart of Cameron, Mrs. Charlotte Little of Houston and Mrs. Elizabeth Collins of Hearne; five brothers, Rev. Ike Hargrove of Rogers, H. G. Hargrove of Andrews, J. N. Hargrove of Devine, W. F. Hargrove of Dallas, and M. E. Hargrove of Stockdale.

Vegetables Top List Of Food Values

Food dollars -- how can you stretch them to provide more appetizing and nutritious meals for the family? Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist with Texas A&M University makes these suggestions for your shopping this week:

Look for economical prices in the vegetable produce section on cabbage, head lettuce, broccoli, celery, carrots, potatoes and yellow onions. Other good choices include radishes, green onions, and sweet potatoes.

In the fresh fruit department oranges and grapefruit continue to be good citrus selections; some sizes are running small, but their juice content is good. A number of popular apple varieties are still on the market, and their quality is generally good as they have been in cold storage. Bananas, pears, tangerines, strawberries and avocados also would be good choices.

Egg prices have been lower than usual for the past months. Grade A Large eggs are presently in best supply, offering the best combination of quality and economy for the money.

Fryers remain an excellent buy in most meat departments. Some feature prices may also be found on various sizes of frozen turkeys.

Retail beef prices have shown some increase. In general, look for the best values on arm and blade pot roasts and steaks, short ribs, ground beef, round steaks and roasts, and beef and calf liver.

TSTI Offers Computer Night Course

A night course in computer programming will be offered on the James Connally Campus of the Texas State Technical Institute.

Registration for the class will be from 6:30 until 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 23 in Bldg. 18-3 on the State Tech campus. Classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. The class is approved for veterans who wish to use their G.I. Bill eligibility.

Students will learn R.P.G., the most prevalent computer programming language in use in Waco. This computer language has been implemented on Uniac and I.B.M. computer systems. Students will gain "hands-on" experience using TSTI's I.B.M. computer system, said Ron Carswell, instructor for the 10-week course.

At completion of the beginning course, a student should be capable of writing programs to produce reports containing multiple card input formats, Carswell said.

For additional information, interested persons should contact the Office of Extension & Continuing Education, 799-3611, Ext. 263, or Ron Carswell at Ext. 246.

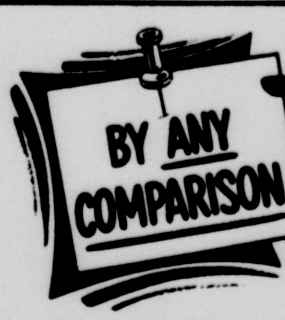

Cameron Man Wins Court Case

The Third Court of Civil Appeals has ruled that Farmers Mutual Protective Association of Texas must pay a claim by Ira L. Pack Sr. of Cameron for a house destroyed by fire more than a year ago.

Farmers Mutual contended it was not liable for damage since the house had been transferred from its location on a farm near Buckholts when the policy was written. The Appeals court upheld an opinion by the 20th district court of Milam County that the insurance company had been notified about the moving of the house and accepted premium payments for more than a year, waiving the location exclusion clause in its policy.

Bob Elliott, Cameron attorney, represented Pack.

Six hundred and fifty tornadoes struck the United States in 1970, killing 73 persons. The totals show a slight increase over the previous year when 604 of the storms claimed 66 lives.
